In the global context of soaring inflation and rapid interest rate hikes, more than ever, financial institutions need to navigate complex financial markets and their impact on product portfolios. Financial institutions need to balance long-term risk management with strategic planning and increased profitability, while meeting key regulatory requirements.

In this webinar discussion we will focus on the Middle East context:

- Financial markets in the post-pandemic period
- Impact of high inflation and subsequent rise in interest rates on liquidity and funding
- Helping corporate customers to deal with interest rate / currency volatility
- Need for dynamic balance sheet management to drive pro-active decision making
- Need to leverage technology to develop agile treasury operating model
