WHY ATTEND?

The payment industry is undergoing rapid and unprecedented changes, with 83% of banks expecting more disruption in the future. While the need for modernizing their payment infrastructure is clear, many banks are struggling to do so because their roadmaps are stressed with regulatory and market requirements, budget restrictions and other competing priorities. With an ever-growing technical debt, many banks are nearing a tipping point of risking their future payments business if they don't act now.

In this webinar our panel of payments industry experts will delve into the key imperatives and factors' banks must consider for a successful payment modernization program.
